♪ Postscript

Hello. This is Oyu no Kaori.

Recently,

"If I don't draw in analog fashion instead of digital, wouldn't it be hard to read?"

or,

"Doesn't it give an obvious awkward feeling to the readers if I draw lines with the pass tool?" [note!]

or,

"It takes so long to color it gray"

"My eyes are tired lol"

... stuff like that are going through my mind, so I tried to change how I draw from digital to analog.

Honestly, I even thought of... only using digital when coloring (lol)

...but,

I remembered that when asked in an interview "Do you draw everything on the computer?", there was a mangaka who answered "Yes. I use Photoshop", and when I looked through my documents, it was there.

It was the author of a work called "Basilisk", and it was definitely art that fully used the functions of photoshop.

And it was easy to read, interesting, and turned to be a good reference.

I stopped worrying about shifting to analog.

I've been using digital until now, so there's none other than to carry it out with digital to the end!!

I'll try hard to make it easy to read.

Since this year started, the pace of publishing has stagnated, but I'd like to take this as a turning point and work harder.

Gotta get a lot of books out!

Kagami is soo cute-!!

She's worth drawing lol

She makes a good combination with Konata-!!

I used an old design for the front page.

Since "Lezmoe!" started its activities in February 2005, 3 years have passed, so like a commemoration, I made it similar to the design of back then.

(I don't know how many people knew about it back then though... sweat)

If anyone possesses the Lezmoe comic ?@, I'd be happy if you compared them??

※ The first 4 pages of this manga are a copy of a release from the 2007 summer Comiket.

Starting from page 5 are the newly drawn contents, but for some reason their clothes turned into school uniforms (sweat) It's just my mistake (---;) Sorry
